“ Hunter was a beautiful soul. He loved the Lord. But couldn't overcome the habit of dope. The last thing he said before he left my house was that he was going to be clean so he could raise his two sons. That was the last time I saw him alive.

Although I did not know Hunter, I was impressed with the truthfulness in your writing of the obituary. It seems many families have to face this horrible problem with addiction. Hugs to all of you during this difficult time of loss. We should all remember that you can love the victim of drugs but hate the addiction. so sad for you all.
